Texas Power Automates Back Office with ePsolutions' emPower Software

AUSTIN, TX – October 3, 2005 – ePsolutions, Inc., a leader in back office solutions for competitive energy resellers, today announced that Texas Power, a Texas-Based, Texas owned provider of electricity services, has gone live with ePsolutions' emPower to manage its back office processes.

emPower is a comprehensive solution that automates and simplifies all critical functions of an energy resellers' back office. Key capabilities include automating new customer acquisition, billing and collections, streamlining customer care, providing self service capabilities for customers, completing market transactions in real-time and easily scaling to support the needs of resellers as they expand to new market segments or offerings.

"We are excited to be using emPower and have been impressed with the ePsolutions teams dedication to their customers," said Rona Davis, general manager, marketing and advertising director for Texas Power. "Their willingness to roll up their sleeves and get in there with you to help your business grow is invaluable. We are projecting double digit growth over the coming few years and with ePsolutions, we know we'll get the help we need, when we need it."

Texas Power provides electricity service to thousands of residential consumers and hundreds of small-to-medium sized businesses in Texas. Its mission is to be a people-oriented business with a stubborn dedication to helping Texans save money on their electricity bills. Texas Power currently serves over 4,000 customers in the post paid market throughout Texas.

"This new customer win is an affirmation that emPower is quickly becoming the back office solution of choice for competitive energy resellers in Texas," said Steve Schugart, director of business development, ePsolutions. "As such, we continue our commitment to drive continuous innovation in the emPower platform to support the complex and growing needs of our customers."
